

Shauna Singh Baldwin

Shauna Singh Baldwin's first novel, What the Body Remembers, was published in 1999 by Knopf Canada, Transworld UK, and Doubleday USA. It received the 2000 Commonwealth Writer's Prize for Best Book (Canada-Caribbean region) and has been translated into fourteen languages.

Her second novel The Tiger Claw was a finalist for Canada's Giller Prize 2004.

Shauna is the author of English Lessons and Other Stories and coauthor of A Foreign Visitor's Survival Guide to America.

Shauna's awards include India's international Nehru Award (gold medal) for public speaking, and the national Shastri Award, a silver medal for English prose. She is the recipient of the 1995 Writer's Union of Canada Award for short prose and the 1997 Canadian Literary Award. English Lessons received the 1996 Friends of American Writers Award.

A former radio producer and ecommerce consultant, her fiction and poems are widely published in literary magazines and anthologies in the U.S.A., Canada, and India. She has served on several fiction juries and teaches short courses in creative writing. Shauna holds an MBA from Marquette University and an MFA from the University of British Columbia.

We Are Not in Pakistan: Stories was published by Goose Lane Editions in 2007. Her third novel The Selector of Souls was published by Knopf Canada and Simon and Schuster UK in Sept 2012.
